AFFIRMATIONS

I am no less queer for getting an abortion.

I can make the decisions that are best for me, my body, and my health.

I deserve to be supported in my decisions.

There is no "right" way for me to feel.
Whatever emotions I have are okay.

I have a wider community I can turn to who will support me.

2SLGBTQ+ PEOPLE AND ABORTION

ARE YOU 2SLGBTQ+ AND GETTING AN ABORTION? YOU'RE NOT ALONE.

2SLGBTQ+ women are more likely to have unintended pregnancies that end in abortion than straight women.¹ While we don't have statistics on how many trans and non-binary people access abortion services, we know that they do. Your sexual orientation and/or gender should not prevent you from having a safe and supported abortion experience.

This brochure will walk you through the process of getting an abortion, and mention some things you may want to consider as a 2SLGBTQ+ person. Remember, you do not need to go through this process alone.

THE ABORTION PROCESS

1. Make an appointment at a clinic that provides abortion services

There are several clinics in Saskatoon that offer abortion services, including Saskatoon Sexual Health and Saskatoon Community Clinic. Some of these clinics may ask you for a referral from your doctor.

2. Your First Appointment

At your first appointment, your provider will have you do some blood tests and an ultrasound to see how far along in your pregnancy you are. You will also talk to your provider about your pregnancy options: parenting, adoption, and abortion. Your health history and plans for contraception will be discussed, and your provider may give you a clinical exam. At the end, you may see a counselor or a specialist if you would like.

3. The Abortion

If you get a medical abortion, you will usually take the medications at home. You may have cramping and bleeding for up to four weeks. You will need follow-up appointments to make sure the abortion is complete.

If you have a surgical abortion, you will have to go to the clinic for the procedure. Your cervix will be numbed, and your provider will put medical instruments in your vagina and uterus to remove the pregnancy. The actual procedure takes 10-15 minutes.

SELF-ADVOCACY: THINGS TO CONSIDER

IS MY ABORTION PROVIDER USING LANGUAGE I AM COMFORTABLE WITH?

Sometimes, abortion providers may use language that implies that your partner is a cisgender man, or that you are dating the other person involved in the pregnancy. If you want, you can ask them to use neutral words such as "partner" or "other parent".

DO I WANT MY ABORTION PROVIDER TO KNOW THAT I AM 2SLGBTQ+?

Some people find it helpful and affirming to have abortion providers who know that they are not heterosexual and/or cisgender. Some people do not want their abortion providers to know. It is up to you to decide how much you want to disclose.

DO I WANT A SUPPORT PERSON WITH ME?

A support person (friend, family member, partner, Elder, abortion doula, etc.) can advocate for you, help you work through any difficult emotions, and help you with any practical issues you may have during your abortion.

CULTURAL CONSIDERATIONS

If you are Two-Spirit, engaging in cultural practices such as smudging or seeking support from an Elder can help you through the process.
